Saddened by this attack on us

AFTER congratulating you on your new compact Midweek (it must be a winner) I would like to say how sad I was to read an attack on the paper by Wycombe Wanderers.

The secretary, writing in the club programme recently, wrote about your editorial on the local lottery controversy.

The secretary is, of course, entitled to his view. But why wasn't there a word about the fantastic support Midweek has given the Blues?

Anyhow, as a regular supporter of Wycombe

Wanderers since 1953, I believe the present lottery is being used for the wrong reason. Although a clubhouse is badly needed, this should have been built during the money spinning era between 1970-75.

After watching both the recent games against Slough and Walthamstow, new players must be first priority.

What amazes me and many supporters is how players like Russell, Cordice (now making a name with Northampton Town) slipped through our net.

We seem to have no scouting system whatsoever and although we have been a semi pro club for several years, our way of thinking and acting are still basically amateur.

Positioning myself in hearing position of the players entrance it seems two or three of the young committee men are more interested in how Manchester City and Liverpool are faring than the Blues.

No doubt some official of the club has answers to all these questions. It will be interesting to read. — Perplexed (Name and address supplied).
